

Custom Flooring

Why do you want your floor customized? A better question is why wouldn't you want it customized? No matter what the situation, there are always environmental, budgetary, situational, and functional factors to consider. Finding the optimal nexus of these factors is where true experienced professionals create their value.

Valued Relationships:

We build strong bonds with our customers through excellent customer service, industry knowledge only gained from years of experience, and always staying updated with the latest trends and materials available. Being responsive and consistent is the standard we hold ourselves to. Our consultations offer literally the wisdom of decades, but with an eye on the present. As our customer, you'll be the beneficiary of years upon years of inherited knowledge and experience, and our ability to translate it into results is why customers keep coming back.

Professional and Technical Knowledge:

Whether you are a public or private organization, a hospital or a school, a factory or a senior living facility, you surely have multiple stakeholders, investors, users, or residents to consider. Moreover, there are regulations and clearances to incorporate. Allegheny Installations has experience in the following:
